Q	Sample Answers	Action
1.	(a) Molly notices that both men rub their faces in the same manner. (b) While her father would have worn a clean shirt in good condition, her grandfather wore his shirts until they were frayed and yellowing.
2.	Molly feels that she is behaving properly, in a way that is expected and acceptable. It also suggests that she feels superior to her sister in this moment as her sister has just left the room in a temper.
3.	Molly is feeling uncertain and upset about her future, and she also seems to feel hurt by her father's decision to send them to her grandparent's house, as though he doesn't care much for her.
4.	Darker and older
5.	Molly is showing the reader that the television provides constant background noise throughout the night. As a result of this, the content of the shows, in this case laughter, makes its way into Molly's dreams when she falls asleep.
6.	The author uses capital letters here to show that Molly is using words that she has heard over and over again from the adults in her life. The author may be using this technique to show that Molly doesn't fully understand what these phrases mean but that they are the only words used to explain the behaviours, actions, and decisions of some of the adults in her life.
7.	I think the writer does this to draw the reader's attention to how Molly is feeling – frustrated, angry, and isolation and untrusted. The line hows that she is frustrated at the time-consuming process of her father getting "Sorted Out". As well as being upset with the wait, Molly may also be angry at the lack of information she is getting from the adults in her life. This isolated one sentence reflects Molly's sense of isolation from the adult world that is having a direct impact on her life, but she is not being trusted with information that could help her come to terms with her situation.

8.	The clothes are a welcome contrast to the weather outside and the tenseness in the house.
9.	Roaring and fighting
10.	(a) This tells the reader that the harsh weather is likely to continue for some time. There is no sign of relief in the sky. (b) Inside the home, there is a lot of anger, both obvious and hidden. There is an evident feeling of anger due to the recent argument between Molly's sister and her grandparents, and there is also an underlying anger that is brewing. This anger has not risen to the surface yet, but it can certainly be felt.
11.	Molly is trying to show the reader that she feels misunderstood and perhaps ignored by the people in her house. Despite this, she is constantly surrounded by sounds that attempt to cover up her sense of isolation such as the television, the arguments between her sister and their grandparents, and the murmuring of her grandpa. Despite all of these noises, Molly clearly doesn't feel heard which leads to a sense of loneliness.
12.	Her father seems to pride himself of a pristine appearance as demonstrated in the line "My dad's shirts are always stiff and clean and white". This would suggest that being clean and well presented at all times is a priority for him. This is not the impression that the reader gets about Molly's mother. This is made clear when Molly talks about how, if her mother had been with her, "we'd go out and jump in the puddles." Unlike Molly's father, her mother shows a willingness to get messy if an opportunity arises. Linked to this, another noticeable difference between the two parents is their attitude towards risk and danger. While Molly's father liked to be "locked up safe and going nowhere", her mother "loved thunder-and-rain-storms." The parents seem to be direct opposites when it comes to attitudes towards unsafe or uncertain situations.
