1.	The car lights
2.	• "Heat came in great sheets of steam off their armoured bonnets." • "The arms of their windscreen wipers went back and forth, back and forth, back and forth."
3.	Detail 1: "each one sat a man in a garish tie and a crisp ironed shirt," Detail 2: "These men glanced at Juliet as she went by" The author does this to contrast the tidiness and stillness of sitting inside the cars to the harsh and messy rainy environment outside. The fact that they give Julilet a glance without offering any help suggests that they are indifferent to what she has to experience.
4.	This adjective suggests that the day will not be easy. It is a heavy day in which things will be more difficult than normal.
5.	The umbrella is not capable of protecting Juliet and the children from the weather conditions.
6.	Detail 1: "was walking behind" Detail 2: "with his hood up and his hands in his pockets."This shows that Barnaby is reluctant to go to school. His body language and the fact that he is lagging behind demonstrates that he is unhappy about his current situation.
7.	That Juliet feels tired, worried, and unhappy with her appearance.
8.	• To emphasise how foreign Juliet feels in this place. • To create a distance between the reader and the place, making it feel strange, vast and unwelcoming. • To help the reader to understand the same as how Juliet is feeling.
9.	This description suggests that Arlington park is sales driven. It is a place that wants you to spend money on trivial or impractical things, or things that are designed to be seen by others.

	they say and how they behave. This becomes most apparent when they react to Juliet giving money to a man on the street. Barnaby is angered by this and makes his opinions heard demonstrating his objection "You shouldn't have given it to him."
10.	In contrast, Katherine seems more than willing to give to others, first suggesting that they give away the things they don't need. However, her kindness reaches the point of excess when she suggests "We could give him our house" suggesting that she is perhaps immature and impractical. Another difference between the two children is how they behave. Barnaby has violent outbursts, for example, when he kicks the lamppost. Katherine, on the other hand, seems shy and doesn't like to make a scene as evidenced by the fact that she speaks to Barnaby 'quietly'.
11.	Technique: Personification Effect: Personification gives human qualities to inanimate objects. In this case, the shops become part of the busy hubbub of the suburb.
12.	I think Juliet wishes she could sing to let out her emotions. It seems that singing would give her some relief from the heaviness she is feeling.
13.	Because for Juliet, the girl represents something exotic and exciting compared to the drudgery of life in Arlington. Perhaps she identifies with her in a way because Juliet doesn't seem to fit in either, although this isn't expressed in her appearance. This girl may give Juliet a sense of hope that all is not lost.
